What are Therapy and Coaching?

Therapy is all about the past, the things that have happened to a person in the past that caused trauma, the perceived things that happened in the past that caused trauma and the imagined things that happened in the past causing trauma. Therapy is all about the past. Therapy is all about trauma.

Coaching is all about the future, the things the client would like to happen in the future, the perceived and imagined things the client would like to experience in the future. Coaching is all about the future. Coaching is all about experiencing life.

The word Coach is derived from the Hungarian Village, Kocsi, where transport vehicles were first made to take travelers from one village to the next. A Coach guides some one from one point in their life to the next.

Therapy is all about advising, assessing, counseling, diagnosing, evaluating, recommending, suggesting and treating the patient, often repeatedly. Coaching is all about discovering where the client would like to be or go in the future. Therapy is about patients. Coaching is about clients.

Therapists want to find the cause of their stress and pain. Coaches desire to help their clients find out where their stress and pain is and learn how to manage them. Therapists want to cure their patients. Coaches want to help their clients discover how to heal themselves.

If you have not taken the Biofeedback Coaching Courses, please consider taking this workshop from one of our Accredited Organizations.

Also, the Spiritual Healer Coach licensing course from Dave & Erina Cowan is still available at a discounted rate for December:

REGISTER NOW at their website: www.bluesunenergetics.net to take advantage of the Introductory Rate of $400 or $349 Early Bird for the Dec 2008 Class. Rates for 2009 are $799 full price and $699 Early Bird 45 days prior to classes. An ADDITIONAL DISCOUNT of $150 is available to any NTCB Certified Technician or Specialist. NOTE: All QA clients must complete the Biofeedback Coaching workshop with Theresa McCall by attending the Proper Terminology Workshop, completing an Oral Exam and creating an Informed Consent form that incorporates Biofeedback. This is mandatory. The NTCB will upgrade you to Specialist after all requirements have been met.

CEUs - Certification Q/A

1. 20 CEUs will be required each year to renew your certification.
2. Please read the CEUs Guidelines at <http://ntcb.org/types/biofeedback/recertification.html>
3. Many of our Accredited Organizations have online webinars. Please check with them and get on their email lists: <http://ntcb.org/training.html>, <http://ntcb.org/types/biofeedback/bioaccredited.html> or <http://ntcb.org/accredited.html>.

4. If you are a Spiritual Healer, consider becoming licensed with one of the Spiritual Healer Licensing Agencies: <http://fshlb.com/members.html>
5. How do you know you are certified? You should have an NTCB certificate hanging on your wall and it should have an NTCB number on it. The dates on your certificate indicate how long your certification is valid.
 - a. Your instructor or organization may give you a 'certificate of completion'^(TM); however you are not certified until you pay your certification and send in your application. This is usually completed during your beginner's training.
6. How do I recertify if my certificate has expired: Go to <http://ntcb.org/apply.html>, print the proper recertification form and follow the application process instructions.
7. I already paid for my certification; do I owe any other fees? You are required to pay $200 for the NTCB Biofeedback certification exam. You will fill out a Biofeedback Specialist application prior to the exam. There is no additional charge to upgrade your certification upon completing your requirements and passing the exam.
8. What are my requirements? The NTCB sent you a letter upon certification indicating what other studies/courses needed to be completed. Otherwise please read the Technician and the Specialist Blueprints on our website.
